PROGRAMME DESCRIPTION

Objective of the programme

Offer the NOCs a programme of scholarships aimed at the athletes preparing and attempting to qualify for the XXIII Olympic Winter Games PyeongChang 2018.

The programme is designed so as to increase the competitiveness level at the Olympic Winter Games rather than artificially increasing their universality.

Only NOCs with athletes demonstrating proven winter sports experience and technical ability could make use of the programme.

Numerous conditions have to be fulfilled for an athlete to become an Olympian, which explains the aim of this programme, namely to give all athletes the chance to enjoy the best possible conditions to qualify for the Olympic Games.

For PyeongChang, the budget for this programme was USD 10,000,000.

Procedure for allocating a “PyeongChang 2018” Olympic scholarship

The NOCs selected their candidates in consultation with the national federations (NFs) concerned at the beginning of 2016.

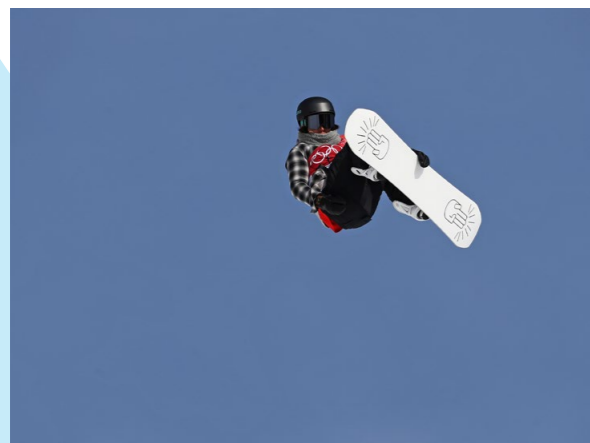

Starting in March 2016, Olympic Solidarity analysed a total of 491 candidatures from 88 NOCs, with technical advice from the different winter sports International Federations (IFs).

The first scholarships were activated in November 2016. The programme continued until the start of the Olympic Winter Games in PyeongChang in February 2018, thus covering two winter seasons.

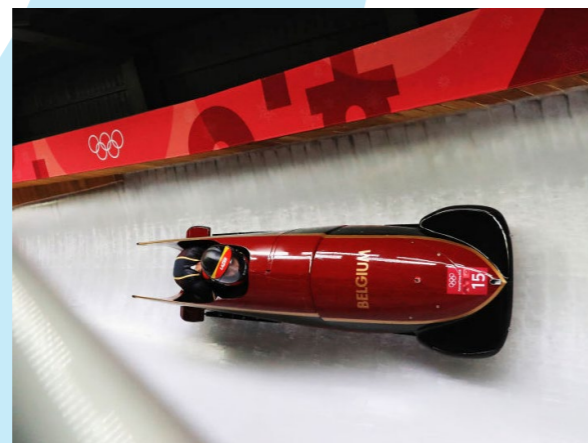

The period after the Olympic Winter Games was devoted to closing all the files.

Profile of the athletes

The candidates had to demonstrate a technical level that was high enough to allow them to qualify for the Olympic Winter Games PyeongChang 2018, and had to have taken part in international competitions recognised by the winter sports IFs.

For their part, the NOCs had to make sure that any athletes found guilty of actions contrary to sports ethics as established by the Olympic Charter and the International Olympic Committee were not put forward as candidates for an Olympic scholarship.

The NOCs were invited to nominate athletes for whom an Olympic scholarship would have a significant impact on their training, and who had no other means of funding for this.

The flexibility of the scholarship programme allowed each NOC to have its own objectives and apply different selection criteria, which resulted in great diversity among the athletes with scholarships.

The individual scholarship

An individual scholarship offers the athletes selected two advantages:

- A monthly fixed-amount training scholarship to cover the athlete's training costs
- A fixed-amount travel subsidy for the athlete to cover the costs of transport to take part in the Olympic qualifying competitions.

An agreement governing the allocation conditions is signed by the NOC, the NF and the athlete. Each athlete granted a scholarship is assessed every four months, and their participation in the various qualifying competitions is monitored regularly.

Three categories of NOCs and two types of assistance

In line with the principles approved by the Olympic Solidarity Commission and to avoid artificially increasing the universality of the Olympic Winter Games, the support was split into 3 categories (A, B and C), based on the participation of the NOCs and their athletes in the Olympic Winter Games Sochi 2014.

This support to help NOCs prepare and try to qualify their athletes for the Olympic Winter Games PyeongChang 2018 was provided through 2 types of financial assistance:

- Individual scholarships
- Tailor-Made scholarships or grants.

* CATEGORY A Aimed at NOCs which had fewer than 10 athletes at the Games in Sochi.

- Number of individual scholarships allocated to each NOC identical to the number of athletes in their delegation in Sochi.
- NOCs with 1 athlete in Sochi could request a maximum of 2 individual scholarships.

* INDIVIDUAL SCHOLARSHIPS

* CATEGORY B Aimed at NOCs which had between 10 and 59 athletes at the Games in Sochi.

- A maximum of 10 individual scholarships allocated to each NOC.

* INDIVIDUAL SCHOLARSHIPS

* CATEGORY C Aimed at NOCs which had 60 or more athletes at the Games in Sochi.

A global Tailor-Made financial subsidy was offered to these NOCs with the largest teams.

The NOCs used the funds in accordance with their priorities, namely:

- Use of the subsidy in the form of individual scholarships allocated to selected athletes.
- Use of the subsidy to supplement the NOC's general preparation budget (organisation of training camps, etc.).

* TAILOR-MADE SCHOLARSHIPS AND GRANTS

PROGRAMME STATISTICS

Qualified individual scholarship holders

The success of the programme is judged by the percentage of scholarship holders who take part in the Games. Allowing the athletes to qualify is thus the main objective, and for this reason these scholarships were aimed chiefly at preparing and funding the athletes' participation in the numerous qualifying events.

Of the 435 individual scholarship holders (Categories A + B) who benefited from the programme, 268, meaning 62%, qualified for the Olympic Winter Games PyeongChang 2018.

Qualification rate

For the Olympic Winter Games, all athletes, including the Olympic scholarship holders, must qualify through the qualification systems established by the IF for each sport. The criteria were different for each sport, which explains the variation of 57 to 76%, according to the sport, in the number of individual scholarship holders qualifying for this edition of the Games.

Olympic Solidarity wishes to thank all those who helped to make this programme a success: the athletes, the NOCs, the continental associations of NOCs, the IFs, the NFs, the PyeongChang Organising Committee for the XXIII Olympic Winter Games and all other partners, without whom none of this would have been possible.

A big thank you to all.
